HISTORIC SITES

Louisville's fascinating historic sites bring to life the early days of Kentucky history. A number of preserved Victorian mansions are open for tours.

Locust Grove is the former home of George Rogers Clark, founder of Louisville and a Revolutionary War hero. The 55-acre farm is a National Historic Landmark and museum with a circa-1790 house, outbuildings and collection of gardens. Famed explorers Meriwether Lewis and William Clark stopped here upon their return from their expedition to the Pacific. Hear stories about George Rogers Clark and discover what life was like on the frontier during western expansion. Visit Locust Grove at 561 Blakenbaker Lane between 10:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and Sunday from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., with the last tour each day beginning at 3:30 p.m.

MUSEUMS

The Speed Art Museum, located at 2035 South Third Street, is Kentucky's first and largest public art museum, spanning 6,000 years of history. The museum is open Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Thursday from 10:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 5:00 p.m.

See both arms and armor at the Frazier International History Museum, located at the corner of Ninth and Main Streets in downtown Louisville. The 100,000-sq.-ft. museum is open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and Sunday from noon to 5:00 p.m.

Other museums include the Thomas Edison House, at 729-31 East Washington Street, open Tuesday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., and the Colonel Harland Sanders Museum located in Kentucky Fried Chicken (KFC) Headquarters at 1441 Gardiner Lane.
